

You Let Me Down!

Focal Point

We have hopes and dreams for the future. We set our hearts on something good, and God lets us down when those hopes and dreams seem to have no hope of coming to fruition. In this message, we will look at the life of Abraham and his disappointment with God. We will look at the importance of trusting God even when it seems like he has let us down.

Discussion Questions

1. Are you in the midst of a storm right now—emotionally, financially, spiritually, or physically? Share some of your worry or fear if you are comfortable doing so. What questions are you asking God about your situation?
2. When have you been through a storm in the past? Did that experience open your mind and heart to how God is present in your life? If not, why do you think that didn't happen? If so, what did you discover about God?
3. Has a storm in your life ever taught you about what is truly important to you? Do you think those things are equally important to God? Why or why not?
4. If what is truly important to you are things that you think God doesn't want for you, what do you think you should do about this situation?
5. What is one favorite takeaway for you from the Bible stories retold in this chapter? Why is this takeaway compelling, or how has it helped you grow spiritually?

Application

When there are storms and problems in life that get in the way of our heart's greatest desires, we often ask: Why God? A better question might be, "What God?" "What do you want me to do now?" "What does trusting you in this situation look like?" Like Abraham, trust God to come through. He will deliver in his time, not ours.
